Rules:

1. The organiser is always right.
2. Even when the organiser is clearly wrong, Rule 1 still applies.
3. Dissent, otherwise known as 'whingeing', arising from the essential unfairness of Rule 2 will result in penalties. Such penalties are payable solely to the organiser and should be of an intoxicating nature. Penalties may be accompanied by bribes which should be of a similar nature.
4. While such penalties and bribes might mollify the organiser, Rule 1 still applies.
